

PRIVACY POLICY

Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy explains how New Coworker collects, uses, discloses, and safeguards information when businesses and their personnel use our website, onboarding flow, dashboard, messaging features, and AI-powered communication services.

Effective date: April 2, 2026

1. Scope

This Privacy Policy applies to information we collect through newcoworker.com, the New Coworker application, customer onboarding, account management, support interactions, and related services that help businesses deploy AI tools for calls, text messaging, email handling, workflow execution, and business memory.

If you provide our services to your own customers, leads, tenants, patients, clients, or other end users, you are responsible for providing any notices and obtaining any consents required for your use of New Coworker.

2. Information We Collect

We may collect the following categories of information:

- Account and contact data, such as name, email address, phone number, business name, and login credentials.
- Business profile data, such as business type, service area, team size, workflow preferences, typical customer inquiries, and onboarding responses.

- Communications and content, such as messages submitted through the product, support emails, SMS interactions, and customer-configured memory or knowledge-base content.
- Billing and transaction data, such as subscription plan, billing period, payment status, and customer identifiers generated by our payment processor.
- Usage and diagnostic data, such as log events, feature activity, browser or device data, IP address, session timestamps, and performance telemetry.
- Provisioning and configuration data, such as infrastructure identifiers, voice-agent configuration, deployment status, and service-integrator metadata.

3. How We Collect Information

We collect information directly from you, automatically through your use of the service, and from service providers that support authentication, billing, hosting, communications, and infrastructure provisioning.

For example, we receive information when you create an account, complete onboarding, purchase a subscription, send or receive SMS through a New Coworker workflow, contact support, or configure your AI coworker.

4. How We Use Information

We use information as reasonably necessary to:

- Provide, maintain, secure, and improve the platform and related services.
- Create and administer accounts, subscriptions, dashboards, and customer environments.
- Process payments, manage renewals, and send transactional notices.
- Provision infrastructure, phone and messaging capabilities, voice agents, and other service components.
- Train, configure, and operate customer-specific business memory, prompts, workflows, and assistant behavior within the service.
- Respond to support requests, enforce our terms, investigate misuse, and comply with law.

- Send administrative, operational, security, and service-related communications.

5. Legal Bases

Where applicable, we process personal information based on one or more of the following grounds: performance of a contract, legitimate interests in operating and securing the service, compliance with legal obligations, and consent where consent is required.

6. AI, Communications, and Customer Content

New Coworker is designed to help businesses automate and support communications, including calls, SMS, email, and workflow actions. Information submitted to the service may be processed by AI models and communications vendors in order to generate responses, route interactions, maintain business memory, and provide requested features.

You should not use the service to submit regulated or highly sensitive information unless you and New Coworker have separately agreed in writing that the service is suitable for that use case and all required compliance obligations have been addressed.

7. How We Share Information

We may disclose information to the following categories of recipients:

- Service providers that help us operate the platform, including hosting, database, authentication, communications, payment, email, analytics, and AI vendors.
- Infrastructure and deployment partners that provision customer environments and related systems.
- Professional advisors, auditors, insurers, and legal counsel where reasonably necessary.
- Government authorities or other third parties when required by law, legal process, or to protect rights, safety, and security.

- Parties involved in an actual or proposed merger, financing, acquisition, reorganization, or sale of assets.

Based on the current product architecture, these providers may include Supabase for authentication and database services, Stripe for billing, Telnyx for telephony (voice and SMS), Resend for email delivery, Hostinger for infrastructure provisioning, and AI vendors (e.g. Google Gemini) used to power voice or model-based features.

8. SMS and Calling Disclosures

If you use SMS or calling features, you represent that you have the right to contact each recipient and that your campaigns, notifications, and conversational flows comply with applicable telecom, privacy, and marketing laws. Message frequency varies. Message and data rates may apply based on the recipient's carrier plan.

Recipients may reply STOP to opt out of SMS alerts and START to re-subscribe where supported. Reply HELP for assistance. Carriers are not liable for delayed or undelivered messages.

9. Cookies and Similar Technologies

We and our service providers may use cookies, local storage, session technologies, and similar tools to keep users signed in, remember onboarding progress, secure the application, understand usage, and improve performance. You can manage many browser-level controls through your device or browser settings.

10. Data Retention

We retain personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to provide the service, comply with legal obligations, resolve disputes, enforce agreements, maintain security, and support legitimate business needs. Retention periods vary by data type, sensitivity, operational need, and legal requirements.

11. Security

We use commercially reasonable administrative, technical, and organizational safeguards designed to protect information against unauthorized access, loss, misuse, or alteration. No system is completely secure, and we do not guarantee that information will always remain secure in every circumstance.

12. International Processing

Your information may be processed or stored in the United States and other jurisdictions where we or our service providers operate. Those jurisdictions may have data protection laws that differ from the laws where you reside.

13. Your Rights and Choices

Depending on where you live, you may have rights to request access to, correction of, deletion of, or portability of personal information, or to object to or limit certain processing. You may also be able to opt out of marketing communications while still receiving transactional or service messages.

To submit a privacy request, email contact@newcoworker.com. We may need to verify your identity before acting on a request.

14. Children

The service is intended for business use and not directed to children under 13. We do not knowingly collect personal information directly from children under 13 through the service.

15. Changes to This Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time. If we make material changes, we may post the revised version on the site, update the effective date above, and take additional steps if required by law.

16. Contact Us

Questions, requests, or concerns about this Privacy Policy may be sent to contact@newcoworker.com.

